I declare that the above information is, to the best of my knowledge, true and correct. I understand that it is an offence to give a false statement or one which is intended to mislead.

Possible Grounds for Appeal

With documentation to support your appeal, infringements may be appealed and withdrawn in the following circumstances:

- The vehicle owner was not the driver at time of infringement issue and the vehicle owner has supplied the Shire of Peppermint Grove with the driver's name and address details in the form of a properly completed *statutory declaration witnessed by an authorised witness.
- Disabled parking permit displayed that may have fallen from dashboard, a valid ACROD permit in the name of the vehicle owner must be produced.
- Immediate medical attention (or medical emergency) was required or being undertaken to the driver or their passenger. A medical certificate from a medical practitioner or an authorised person at the relevant hospital authority must substantiate this in writing.
- Vehicle breakdown, flat tyre, etc. Documentary evidence must be provided from the RAC, a reputable motor vehicle breakdown service company or motor vehicle mechanical repair company or other evidence of mechanical failure to be provided.
- The illegal parking of the vehicle was authorised by a Police Officer or Ranger due to an emergency or as a result of action by the Police. i.e... parking of vehicle due to drink/driving allegation. A statement by the Police Officer or Ranger to be provided.

If you cannot provide sufficient documentation to support your appeal you can make a Statutory Declaration. However, please be fully aware of the legal ramifications of making a false statement.*A stat dec is a legal document that contains a written statement about something that is true. It must be witnessed by an approved person. A stat dec is a statement of fact(s) that you declare to be true. It can be used as evidence. If you do intentionally make a false statement in a stat dec you can be charged with an offence and not only face a fine but also up to four years imprisonment.

Invalid Basis for Appeal

The following are not valid reasons or explanations that would allow the withdrawal of a parking infringement:

- You did not see the sign. The driver must look for and comply with parking signs to ascertain if parking is permitted in the area.
- You did not understand the parking sign or the sign was confusing. (The Shire's signs comply with the standards set by the relevant Australian Standard.)
- You did not know that parking restrictions applied.
- You couldn't find a parking bay so you left your vehicle in a place you thought would have been alright. The driver must look for and comply with parking signs to ascertain if parking is permitted in the area.
- You thought you were allowed to park there. Only authorised vehicles can park in loading zones, taxi stands, disabled parking bays or bus zones.
- The permit had fallen out of sight or flipped upside down. (You must ensure that any parking permit is displayed correctly prior to leaving the vehicle.)
- You had to use the toilet.
- You were only there for a few minutes or you lost track of the time.
- You were helping someone and thought it was ok to disregard the parking rules. (Drivers need to ensure their vehicle is legally parked, regardless of the reason.)
- Your doctor's appointment / hairdresser / job interview / exam / lecture etc went over time. (You must ensure you have parked in a place that provides enough time for your requirements.)
- You were copying how someone else had parked. (This does not exempt you from ensuring you are parked legally.)
- You did not see the time restrictions on the sign or did not read all information on the sign.
- You ran out of fuel.
